Senate seeks opinion on South Africa

By TERI BROWN
Staff writer

The Faculty Senate Tuesday unanimously voted to send a referendum concerning the EIU Foundation's holdings in South Africa to faculty members to get their impressions on the subject.

The referendum will ask faculty members if they believe the university's foundation should withdraw its holdings in U.S. companies based in South Africa.

The referendum results will be used to decide whether to recommend divestiture to the foundation.

The senate conducted an informational South Africa forum last week to discuss the divestiture issue. The foundation currently has $229,013 invested in 10 U.S. companies that have bases in South Africa.

One senate member expressed concern about the foundation losing money if Eastern divests. "Do we have a right to say take that substantial loss? The intent is great, but I just have a problem with that," he said.

Senate member Terry Perkins, who wrote the referendum, said that might be one of the reasons people will vote 'no' to divestiture.

I don't think your concerns are unique. I'm sure there are a lot of people on campus who feel the same way. That's why we need a referendum.

—Terry Perkins
Faculty Senate member

The referendums should be returned to Perkins by Nov. 5.

Senate member Bill Heyduck said he could see both sides of the issue, but believed divestment was the only way to get any action.

The senate also discussed violations of campus security. After studying a faculty survey taken to explore the problem, committee member Dick Goodrick said, "According to the survey, 13 percent of the faculty have had some sort of unauthorized entry.

The senate also passed a resolution recommending the Illinois Board of Higher Education maintain status quo for course-specific admission requirements.

Currently, a student must pass three units of language arts, two units of social studies, two units of math, one unit of science and one unit of art, music, foreign language or vocational education in order to graduate from high school.

Under the IBHE proposed requirements, students must have four units of English, three units of social studies, three units of math, three units of science and two units of art, music or a foreign language to be eligible to enter college.

"I'm just not sure that more hours of courses is the solution," senate member Ken Sutton said.

Senate chairman Jayne Ozier said one of the reasons the Council of Academic Affairs passed a resolution against the proposed admission requirements was because it would force students in the ninth grade to decide whether they were going on to college or not.

Warrens to give lecture on spooks

By PAMELA LILL
Activities editor

Along with Halloween comes the idea of ghosts and demons.

Students who have an interest in demonology and the supernatural might want to attend a lecture given by "America's Top Ghost Hunters."

Ed and Lorraine Warren, seekers of the supernatural, will speak at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Union Grand Ballroom.

The Warrens' lecture, sponsored by Eastern's University Board Lecture Committee, have been investigating supernatural occurrences for more than 35 years.

The Warrens have been involved in such cases as the haunting at the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, as well as a haunting on Long Island, which became the subject of the movie The Amityville Horror.

The lecture will include a slide presentation of their encounters, as well as a question and answer period.

Their "modern day ghostbusters" case history includes cases in the United States, Britain and Scotland, Warren said in a phone interview.

Warren said he grew up in a haunted house. He and his sister saw an "apparition of an elderly woman in the closet" of their bedroom, he said. Warren added that this is one reason they are interested in helping people.

"When someone asks for help, how can I refuse?" he said.

In dealing with the supernatural world, Warren said he does not encounter much skepticism.

During most cases, Warren said, he and his wife work with someone from a church. "Every great religion today has some form of exorcism," he said.

The Warrens have worked with protestants, catholics, rabbis and muslims, he said. Exorcisms are successful eight out of 10 times, Warren added.

Some reasons they might not work is the "victim" has not made a good confession or they have not

Stevenson runs for governor again

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Adlai Stevenson III, still smarting over his 1982 loss to Gov. James R. Thompson in the closest Illinois governor's race ever, declared Tuesday he would try again and vowed to "throw the rascals out."

Stevenson, announcing he will seek the Democratic nomination for governor, began his campaign where he left off three years ago—with stinging criticism of Thompson, a Republican who is bidding for an unprecedented fourth term.

"The governor reigns like an imperial potentate from a glass palace in Chicago," said Stevenson, referring to a new $172 million state office building constructed during Thompson's tenure.

Stevenson also said his approach to agriculture would be more productive than holding "charity concerts," a reference to the recent star-studded FarmAid benefit concert which Thompson helped organize.

And Stevenson pledged he would "build Illinois without bilking Illinois," a reference to a massive building Illinois public works program launched by the governor.

"It's time again to get out the broom, that old symbol of cleaning up the mess," said Stevenson, 55. He vowed, as his father did in the 1948 governor's campaign, "to throw the rascals out."

In 1982, Thompson edged Stevenson by 0.139 percent—5,074 votes out of more than 3.6 million cast—after a bitterly fought campaign during which Stevenson accused Thompson of trying to portray him as a "wimp." The governor responded that he didn't know what a wimp was.

The exchange—and by inference, the label "wimp"—haunted the soft-spoken Stevenson throughout his campaign.

Chicago paper delays strike

CHICAGO—About 275 reporters, editors and photographers worked past a strike deadline Tuesday at the Chicago Sun-Times in the hope that a federal mediator could help avert a walkout at the nation's 10th largest daily newspaper.

The Newspaper Guild postponed its 10 a.m. deadline "temporarily" Tuesday so that bargainers could resume negotiations at 3:30 p.m., said guild spokesman Charles Nicodemus, chairman of the union's negotiating committee.

Talks had broken off at 3 a.m. Tuesday after 12½ hours.

Union negotiators agreed "at the pleading of the mediator" to try again Tuesday afternoon, said Larry Finley, vice president of the Chicago Newspaper Guild.

The two sides had been close to an agreement, when the union presented its newest proposal and management withdrew its agreement to stay with the current night differential, the bonus workers are paid for the inconvenience of working at night, he said.

Affidavits may set man free

CHICAGO—A lawyer for Danny Escobedo told a circuit court judge Tuesday that two brothers have recanted their previous statements that Escobedo shot at them.

Escobedo, 47, is charged with attempted murder and aggravated battery in the Sept. 22 shooting of Jesus Reyes, 24, outside a South Side bar. Police said a shot also was fired at Reyes' brother, Alfredo, 26, who was not hit.

Escobedo's attorney, Thomas J. Farrell, filed affidavits with Circuit Judge James M. Bailey, saying they contained statements from the Reyes recanting their previous contentions that Escobedo had done the shooting.

Farrell also asked the reduction of Escobedo's $500,000 bond.

Bailey continued the case until 10 a.m. Monday.

After the hearing, Farrell said he would seek dismissal of the charges.

John Brady, an assistant state's attorney, said he had not seen the affidavits, but added, "We object to the bond reduction."

Earthquake death toll higher

WASHINGTON—It only seems that there have been more earthquakes than usual. There haven't been, but people may be paying more attention to them in the shock of devastation in Mexico and the two quakes in the New York City area felt by millions of people unaccustomed to such shaking.

Scientists say tremors like those that hit the Northeast last Saturday and again on Monday aren't that unusual.

Powerful quakes have struck the East Coast in the past, and what was perhaps the strongest tremor in the nation's history rocked the Mississippi Valley in the early 19th century.

Worldwide, the number of earthquakes measured in the first eight months of this year was about the same as in the comparable period in 1984.

Mandia in critical condition

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP)—The first Penn State artificial heart recipient lapsed into critical and unstable condition Tuesday with reduced brain function, but later rebounded and spoke to his brother, doctors said.

"See if you can get me something to eat," was Anthony Mandia's request of his brother around midday, said Dr. John W. Burnside, a spokesman for the Hershey Medical Center. "His level of consciousness is clearly higher."

The 44-year-old Mandia, who had been listed in critical and stable condition from the implant Friday until the setback, remained in critical and unstable condition Tuesday afternoon, said Burnside.

A hoped-for transplant of a human heart had been arranged for Monday evening and Mandia had signed a consent form at 10 p.m. But around the same time, the donor heart failed, and by 11 p.m., Mandia's condition began to worsen as he started slipping in and out of consciousness, Burnside said.

By 3 a.m., Mandia was "stuporous and arousable only to painful stimuli," said Burnside. "It is a setback."

He said doctors suspect Mandia is suffering from spasms of the brain's blood vessels. While not life-threatening, the spasms could lead to permanent brain damage, although there is no evidence of that so far, Burnside said.

"From moment to moment, his condition varies," Burnside said at a briefing Tuesday morning. "He is at one moment stuporous...The next moment he is responding to his name...and is obviously cognizant of what's going on. He has not said anything."

Burnside said doctors had no idea how the condition could be related to the Penn State heart, which was designed only as a temporary means of keeping heart patients alive long enough for a donor organ to be found.

Burnside said doctors considered drug therapies to deal with the condition, known as vasospasms, but with Mandia's improving condition have decided to wait. Vasospasms are a constricting of blood vessels similar to what happens in migraine headaches but over a wider area of the brain.

Fatigue also could be a factor, since Mandia must be awakened at least every three hours to take deep breaths, cough and roll over to keep his lungs clear, Burnside said.

"He did admit to being very tired," Burnside said of the patient.

Three hours before Mandia's condition worsened, Hershey's transplant team received word from the Delaware Valley Transplant Program that a donor heart had been found.

Suicide ends city's 'sad chapter'

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif. (AP)—Dan White's boyish good looks and easy manner won him political office and a piece of the American dream. But his assassinations of a popular mayor and the city's first gay supervisor began a nightmare that lasted until he took his own life, clutching pictures of his children.

"This is the final shock in a series of sorrows that Dan White has caused," said Assemblyman Art Agnos. "Besides hurting the families of (Mayor) George Moscone and (Supervisor) Harvey Milk and his own, he also exacted an incalculable price on the citizens of San Francisco and all of California."

Mayor Dianne Feinstein said "the latest tragedy should close a very sad chapter in this city's history."

"Everyone says Dan White was a friend of mine. Yeah. He was a friend of mine before Nov. 27, 1978," the date of the killings, said Police Inspector Frank Falzon. He had played ball with White as a boy, worked with him as a policeman, and then arrested him after the killings.

Coroners performed an autopsy Tuesday to confirm the police belief that the former city supervisor killed himself by carbon monoxide poisoning Monday after running a hose into his car from the exhaust pipe. The car was in the garage at the house where he and his family had lived.

White had resigned his position on the Board of Supervisors 17 days before the killings, but had asked Moscone to give him the job back. He said Moscone agreed but then refused, so he went to City Hall for a final appeal.

The former policeman and firefighter entered City Hall through a basement window to avoid metal detectors at the street entrances. He went to Moscone's office and, when the popular mayor refused to withdraw the resignation, shot him in the head.

White then reloaded his gun, walked down the hall and killed Milk, the first openly gay supervisor in the city known for its large homosexual population, who allegedly had opposed White's return to the board.

The killings marked a turning point for both the city and White, who had once described himself as "a believer in the American dream."

His conviction on charges of voluntary manslaughter instead of murder, and a resulting sentence of 7 2-3 years, touched off a riot at City Hall that caused more than $1 million damage and left 160 injured. The anger built again last year when he was released from prison after serving just five years.

Student rep slams official, promises to make apology

By JIM ALLEN
City editor

Joe O'Mera, Charleston City Council student representative, finally spoke up at the council meeting Tuesday and managed to raise a few eyebrows in the process, possibly slandering a city official.

Toward the closing minutes of the meeting, an otherwise quiet Student-Senate appointee leveled charges against Charleston's building inspector, asking about his being a landlord as well.

"It's just some things I've heard from some people I know," O'Mera said. "I can't say the name of the guy (tenant), because he's afraid he's going to get kicked out."

City Attorney Tony Sunderman promptly said the city would look into the situation and warned O'Mera that he had made some "serious allegations."

Late Tuesday, Charleston City Inspector Jeff Finley said, "I don't know who he would be referring to. Until I know something, my back's against the wall.

"If someone's got a problem," he added, "they can call me." Finley noted he does not own any property in the city and he "doesn't care who it is that owns the property; if there's a violation, I will take care of it."

After the meeting, O'Mera said, "I guess the city council people are mad at me and rightfully so, now that I look back at it. . . I wasn't accusing that guy tonight; I just wanted (the council) to look into it.

"(The council) just wanted me to have better awareness of the facts," he said. "I'll probably have to write an official apology. I didn't mean it that way. I don't know.

"I just don't want to have to go to court," O'Mera added. "I just didn't know what I was talking about—I got there late."

When asked if he had looked into the situation prior to the meeting himself, O'Mera said he had not and that he merely wanted the city council "to do it."

"I'm too busy with my (senate legislative leadership) committee to look at what's wrong with the city."

O'Mera also questioned at the meeting whether Charleston police had started to "crack down" on parties.

The student senator had asked the council about the police policy at an earlier meeting, but was told by Mayor Murray Choate that nothing had changed.

Commissioner Bruce Scism asked O'Mera what he believed the limit to a party to be, but O'Mera said he "just wanted the council to look into it."

O'Mera also said he wanted the police to check into complaints to ensure they are not from "rival frats" who are trying to break up the parties of "their competition."

Senate develops new policy for absentees

By A.L. LANDERS
Staff writer

A constitutional change involving the Student Senate absentee policy will be voted on at Wednesday's senate meeting.

The proposal, which was originally introduced as a bylaw change, would allow senators to miss one month of senate meetings a semester before being removed from the senate, Senate Speaker Larry Markey said Tuesday.

Currently, a senator can miss two meetings before being removed, he said.

The current policy is to take roll call before and after the senate meeting. If a senator misses a roll call it is counted as one absence, thereby allowing a senator to accumulate two absences in one meeting.

The student government constitution states that if a senator accumulates four unexcused absences per semester, it will result in automatic dismissal.

The constitutional change, introduced by senator Terry Mueller, would change the policy so that each roll call missed by a senator would only count as half an absence.

Markey said if the proposal is passed by a two-thirds majority of the senate at Wednesday's meeting, the proposal would go before the student body on the Nov. 13 election ballot for final approval.

In other business, the senate, which meets at 7 p.m. in the Union addition Arcola-Tuscola room, will hear a constitutional change proposal from Mike Ashack, student Board of Governors representative, Markey said.

The proposal calls for the transfer of collective bargaining duties from the executive vice president to the BOG representative, he said.

Markey said collective bargaining duties involve having a student sit in on all negotiations involving university faculty.

Average natural gas bills have recently decreased

By JIM ALLEN
City editor

Average residential natural gas bills have plunged in the last two years because of conservation and lower rates, a spokesman for Central Illinois Public Services said Tuesday.

While natural gas rates have dropped more than 13½ percent since October 1983, the average residential gas bill during that same period has fallen off between 18 to 20 percent, Norm Spear, CIPS Superintendent for the Charleston District Area, said.

The rates have trickled downward from $.4384 to $.3788 a therm, the unit of gas equal to 100,000 BTUs, Spear said, noting the rate changes have been slow but steady.

While Spear credited most of the change in the average bill to the prices and deregulation, he said conservation on the part of area residents has caused a good share of the plummet.

"I can certainly tell and certainly appreciate the conservation efforts of the students," he said. "They are consciously making an effort. That's using energy efficiently and wisely.

"If you can have something used more efficiently, the more planning you can do to efficiently" deliver services, he added.

When projections are more accurate with steady usage, he said, the supply and prices are easier to keep at stable levels.

Looking to the future, Spear said the prices have pretty much leveled off with "nothing pending" in the way of requests for rate increases.

"In my opinion, the prices are going to stabilize. I don't know what tomorrow will bring, but we're in the ballpark right now."

Minister asks for meeting after riot kills eight black Africans

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Rioting flared outside major cities Tuesday with up to eight blacks reported killed, and a white South African minister said he and five other churchmen want to talk with the African National Congress, the main guerrilla organization trying to overthrow the government.

President P. W. Both warned that a meeting would "amount to a challenge of the state's authority."

Security police reportedly arrested a leader of the United Democratic Front, the main multiracial organization opposed to white-minority rule. Colleagues of Trevor Manuel, a member of the front's national executive who is of mixed-race ancestry, said he was detained under a security law that allows police to deny the victim a trial.

Stating rules may clean up mud problem

A lot of mud slinging was going on last week.

The mud wasn't thrown by a campus organization or the city administration. It was thrown by some students on the South Quad.

Stroll by the quad and you will see the results of the frolicking that occurred after Charleston was hit by a sudden rain storm. The quad has a huge mud pit—not the most attractive feature on campus.

And sure, it looks "ugly." But when you really get down to specifics, is it really that bad?

True, nobody has a right to damage university property, but it seems that the students were just having a good ol' game of mud football. Most likely, the damage was not done intentionally. The culprits just didn't think before they slid.

But certainly no one can blame Everett Alms, the physical plant director for being upset. After all, the condition of the grounds does reflect on the university as a whole. And since this problem becomes a trendy topic for debate once a year, perhaps something should be done to solve the problem once and for all.

It seems unreasonable to punish the students who took advantage of an opportunity to really let loose and relieve some academic pressure. But at the same time it is unreasonable to expect the Physical Plant to have to deal with the problem each year.

Students should look for a new place to play mud football and perhaps Alms could help them find a spot for the game.

Residence Hall Counselors should put up notices informing students that playing mud football on the quad is a violation of university rules as it destroys university property.

But for this year, maybe students should distract their parents when they walk by the quad on Parents Weekend so they won't see the mess.

The mud problem can be cleaned up so the university can wash its hands of it once and for all. But, the solution should not be saved for a rainy day.

Campus does not need two 'dry' clubs

Editor:

The Subway, Eastern's non-alcoholic night club, should be closed immediately. It's not that I don't support a facility for those students who choose not to drink, but Eastern already has such a facility—Booth Library. Why do we need both?

The behavior in the library has reached deplorable levels. Instead of studying, students are going to the library to batter vending machines and socialize with their friends. Supposedly, that is what the Subway is for.

If Student Senate is really concerned about the campus, they should work toward the improvement of the library. Perhaps we could employ football players as bouncers and throw out the incessant chatters.

Students who have come to college to better their education should not have to put up with conversational jibberish in a building reserved for contemplative thought.

Floyd Akins, if you want to help your school, improve the library and see that certain rules are enforced. If not, close the Subway because Eastern does not need two dry night clubs.

Letter policy

The Daily Eastern News welcomes letters to the editor from any reader addressing issues relating to the campus community.

The name and telephone number of at least one author must be submitted with each letter to the editor.

Only the first three names from letters containing more than three authors will be published unless further specified.

Letters submitted without a name (or with a pseudonym) or without a telephone number or other means of verifying authorships will not be published.

Authorship of letters will be verified by telephone or by means otherwise specified by the author prior to publication.

Names will be withheld only upon justifiable request.

Letters should not exceed 250 words. Letters which exceed the 250-word limit will be edited to standards with author's permission.

Terrorism wimps' stifle governments

It has been frustrating following the continual developments in the Middle East. Will the Italian government hand the four Palestinian terrorists to American justice? Will the one that got away Mohammed Abbas ever be found?

While I hope everything works out in the end, especially considering murdered Klinghoffer's widow, it has been frustrating watching news reports and reading newspaper accounts.

I just want two questions answered.

How can the Egyptian government be mad that the United States forced one of its planes down? And why have both the Italian and Yugoslavian governments stifled American efforts to capture alleged hijacking ringleader Abbas?

I have my suspicions, and it reminds me of Chicago Tribune columnist Mike Royko's "war wimps" piece I read earlier this year.

Royko wrote about getting tough (when it comes to the military) legislators, among others, who were eligible but somehow didn't serve the country during wartime. That's where the "war wimps" came in.

In this case, one can substitute "war wimps" with "terrorism wimps."

Italian Prime Minister Bettino Craxi and the government of Yugoslavia do not want any part of the retribution that would follow if they captured Abbas and sent him to the United States for justice. And then there is Egypt, stuck in the middle, not wanting to infuriate the Palestine Liberation Organization or other Arab countries, who have been friendlier the past few years, by handing the four hijackers to the United States. President Mubarak knows other Arab countries have improved relations.

So "terrorism wimp" Mubarak finds an escape route—why not arrange safe passage out of Egypt for the four hijackers as part of the surrender agreement on the Achille Lauro? That way, the PLO or another angry group in the Mideast, would find no reason to plant a car bomb, or run a suicide car into a busy roadside business during peak hours.

"Terrorism wimp" Craxi had more to lose if he turned Abbas over to American authorities or tried him. Abbas heads perhaps the most violent wing of the PLO, the Palestine Liberation Front, and is

Crossview:

Western Courier

friends with PLO chairman Yassar Arafat.

If Craxi turns Abbas over or puts him under custody, terrorist acts far worse than Red Brigade activities of the past would surface. He would be under danger of assassination.

It now appears Craxi has talked himself out of trouble, saying that Abbas was immune from prosecution since he had an Iraqi diplomatic passport.

That line of reasoning, however, has left American-Italian relations at easily the lowest point in quite some time.

On the other hand, the Egyptian public, more than anything else, has forced Mubarak to stand firm in his demand that the United States formally apologize. He has reasoned that he can't be a "terrorism wimp" and a "feeble wimp" at the same time.

With the state of Mideast affairs, Mubarak can't afford to be construed as a wimp. I would imagine he knew he would be heavily criticized in the United States for granting safe travel out of Egypt, and he may have been caught off-guard by the U.S. response.

Perhaps Mubarak's biggest gripe is the physical nature of U.S. military action forcing a commercial jet down. The bully beat the little guy.

This has turned into a political hot potato that no one wants to handle.

It can be thought of as a silent victory for terrorism, where the silent threat of immediate retaliation has turned what could have been a unified, bold attack against terrorism into a submission by "terrorism wimps."

What message has this given terrorists throughout the world? Seek refuge, if you can, with sympathetic "terrorism wimps."

Education week views given

National Higher Education Week, with the theme of "Honor Thy Faculty," is underway, and several Eastern instructors said they believe it is healthy to show teachers support.

Zoology instructor Richard Funk said, "It's useful to publicize higher education because education beyond high school is beneficial."

"It's a nice idea to have the theme 'Honor Thy Faculty,'" he said. "It's nice to be recognized."

Chemistry instructor Richard Karraker said it is "wonderful" that Higher Education Week honors faculty members.

"Of course, I am a bit biased," he said, "but education is great. Anything that attracts more attention to higher education is great."

Sociology instructor Johnetta Jones also said, "Anytime teachers are honored it is great," but she added that she was not aware of the week planned to honor instructors.

"It's a good concept but it needs to be better publicized," she said.

However, history instructor Robert Hennings said although he is not against having a higher education week, he believes "it is losing its effectiveness."

Hennings said, "With all the things being honored sometimes everyone is passed by."

Although he said he liked this year's theme, he said, "Honor is self serving."

Several instructors said they believe the National Higher Education Week is good for prompting more students to continue their education.

For example, Hennings said, "If the student is motivated enough and qualified to continue into college, then he should—as long as he realizes the guidelines set at the college."

Funk said, "A student doesn't necessarily have to go into a four year college or university—although it is nice—as long as he continues his education in some form. Any education is useful."

"I decided to become an instructor because I like the contact with students," he said. "The programs (at Eastern) can stand up to competition. One of the best strengths the school has is its smaller class sizes, and the teachers are versatile."

Hennings, who noted he decided to teach college because "the opportunity presented itself," said, "I did have to exert myself to do the work."

"This school is concerned with maintaining quality in the programs and the integrity of the degrees offered," he said.

followed the instructions of the church, Warren said.

One of the Warrens' most recent cases occurred in Massachusetts.

There a farmer, Maurice Gheriault, was attacked "diabolically," Warren said. The man had an equivalent of a fourth grade education, he said.

The farmer was heard speaking in different languages, as well as being "seen physically in two places," Warren said.

During this bi-location, Gheriault's family was sitting in the kitchen while Gheriault was asleep in his bedroom. He was seen coming out of the bedroom with no shoes on, and started walking out the door, Warren said.

When his wife said something to him, he didn't respond. When she got up from the table to ask him again what he was doing, she saw him sitting on the bed putting on his shoes. The other "man" was still walking out the door, he said.

An exorcism was performed on the farmer and was "successful," Warren said.

Warren cautions people in their dealings with the supernatural world.

People "shouldn't fool around with Ouija boards or seances," he said. "You can't always tell if they (spirits) are good or evil."

The Warrens have a fairly large following. There are some people who keep the Warrens' phone number next to the phone, just like the police or fire department, Warren said.

The "most dangerous" case the Warrens have worked on, dealt with a possession of a Connecticut woman. After lecturing in Nova Scotia, the Warrens were driving back to their home.

They saw a "psychic terror" in the car. They were aware of it, because they had "gained recognition" of the spirit possessing their client.

If you give a spirit recognition, it might come back to you if you ever think of it, Warren said.

The cost of the lecture is $1 for Eastern students and $3 for faculty, staff and the general public.

Assistant dean of administration position filled by former official of academic affairs

BILL DENNIS

A new position, created by the planned expansion of the College of Business, was filled by a person with seven years of experience with working on the Board of Governors. Judy Hofstrand, BOG assistant deputy executive director of academic affairs for the last seven years, was named Oct. 15 as assistant to the dean of administration. Two other people were interviewed by an eight-member search committee. Hofstrand received her bachelor's degree from North Dakota State in 1963 and her masters's degree from Sangamon State University in 1979. She worked four months last year at Eastern in the vice president for academic affairs office, she said. Ted Ivarie, dean of the College of Business, said the salary for the new position is $30,000 a year. Her duties will include reviewing academic programs which will aid regional and professional accreditation groups. The College of Business is currently trying to expand into a fully accredited program. Hofstrand described her previous work as "very close" to her new duties. "The content (of the work) is very much the same, just at a different location," she said. "Now, I'm working at the campus level rather than at the board level." Her duties include administrating the college's equipment, supplies and services and performing budgetary duties. She will also serve on the Administrative Council of the College of Business as well as represent the dean in various committees and meetings. Hofstrand, a Charleston resident, was also one of four people interviewed earlier this semester for the position of assistant to the provost of academic planning. That position went to Cynthia Nichols.

Listen line scheduled to resume service Wednesday

by LaDONNA WALLACE
staff writer

Eastern's Listen Line, a call-in hotline for students and community residents with problems, is scheduled to resume operation Wednesday, coordinator Ada Dolz announced last week. Dolz, a graduate assistant in the educational psychology and guidance department, said the hotline will be open at 581-2212 from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. seven days a week. Listen Line will shut down only during holidays. The Listen Line is only operated during evening hours because other forms of help are available during day hours, she said.

Listen Line stopped operation last spring at the end of the semester. Paul Overton, the educational psychology chairman and guidance department and Listen Line adviser, said the program was created 12 years ago to help people in the immediate area who have a crisis and would like to talk to someone with "more than average training." Dolz said the hotline also gives valuable hands-on experience to the volunteers who man the phones. The 10 operators in the program, she said, consist of graduate students who are pursuing masters degrees in community counseling, student services or school counseling.

Each operator has his own style of dealing with the crises that are called in, Dolz said, and all calls are kept confidential. "A lot of times these are problems that they just can't talk to a friend about," she said. "They want someone who's objective." Overton explained that although the number of calls to the hotline varies from year to year, the majority are from people who are lonesome or depressed. He said grades, romance and health are the major concerns of the callers. Regardless of what the crisis may be, Overton said, "We have time, and we're willing to listen."

Residential reform center saves former alcohol, drug abuser

Editor's note: The following is the second in a series of three stories of Awareness Week on the effects of alcohol abuse, the changes it creates in people's lives and the help they can seek.

By ANGELA PAOLI
Assistant activities editor

Seventy-four days in a residential alcohol reform center saved Bonnie, a former alcoholic and drug abuser, from inevitable self destruction.

By the age of 37, Bonnie had faked every symptom she could think of in order to obtain prescription drugs from her family doctor.

She had begun drinking at the age of 14.

Bonnie, who asked that her last name not be published, had been experiencing severe depression from her drug and alcohol problem, she said.

Eventually, a family member took Bonnie to a new doctor. This led her to enter into the 74-day residential reform program.

"I did not think I really needed it," Bonnie said, but mentally and physically, she was too weak to protest.

When Bonnie was first brought to the detoxification unit at the reform center, she was scared.

"They were scared that I might die during withdrawal," she said.

Bonnie's system was in such bad shape the withdrawal stage could have been too much to handle. She was experiencing severe headaches combined with constant nosebleeds, she said.

The people at the center gave Bonnie water, honey and lemon juice to help relieve her headache. She was allowed no aspirin.

"I received treatment in the form of counseling, group therapy and general education of my problem," Bonnie said.

The people at the center gave Bonnie constant reinforcement.

"I felt like the worst person in the world," she said. "They made me feel important, like I was worth something."

Although Bonnie was still depressed, the center offered her first ray of hope.

"I was still very scared, but I began to trust these people enough to stay," she said.

"As time went on, I began to build more hope through the help of these people."

After the initial residential program, Bonnie became an outpatient at the reform center she had attended.

This period in her life was still scary, but it was a "healthy fear," she said.

For the next three years, Bonnie worked to put the pieces of her life back together.

Bonnie stayed close to the center, attending self-help groups frequently. This was added reinforcement, she said.

She went back to work full time at a factory, obtained a general education diploma, worked voluntarily at the reform center, and continued to raise her children.

During this recovery period, Bonnie experienced depression even though she had no contact with alcohol or drugs.

After counseling, Bonnie learned that her depression stemmed from feeling "trapped" in her job at the factory.

"I quit the factory and went to work in the intake unit at the reform center," she said.

Bonnie soon became a counselor and is now residential coordinator at the reform center she attended.

As Bonnie herself recovered, she happily watched her family recover as well.

Her two sons as well as her daughter recovered and went on to lead very successful and productive lives, she said.

When Bonnie first came out of the center, her children were very supportive.

"They did as they were told and never griped," Bonnie said.

Her youngest son was only eighteen months old when Bonnie entered the program. After she resumed her everyday life, she had to "develop a relationship" with her son all over again.

"He had never really known his real mother," Bonnie said.

Bonnie set the precedent in her family. Other members of her family have entered similar programs and experienced the benefits that Bonnie has.

Bonnie's life has changed dramatically because of her rehabilitation. She has never had a relapse and is now enjoying her 10th year of sobriety.

Greek college career examined by lecturer

DEBBIE PIPPIT
Staff writer

The importance of balancing fun and education in the Greek system were stressed at a presentation given Tuesday.

T.J. Schmitz, executive vice president of the national Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity, spoke to a largely-Greek audience of about 800. sm“We want to play hard and we want to do it responsibly,” Schmitz said.

Schmitz pointed out that excess alcohol and low grades usually go hand in hand.

Flunking out of college is “not the thing to do,” Schmitz said, because students are in college for an education and should not let alcohol interfere with studying.

He added that for the first time in history, the grade point averages of fraternity and sorority members nationwide fell below average.

Schmitz compared Greek organizations to a three-legged stool, with the three legs being attitude, effective leadership and good programs.

As far as attitude goes, Schmitz said, students should have a positive attitude and should motivate others. He pointed out that 10-15 per cent of a fraternity or sorority are the ‘doers’ and they try to motivate the “dues-payers” to participate in more areas.

As for leadership, Schmitz said that officers should have a minimum GPA of at least 2.25 or 2.50.

He said that incentives and competition should be provided to promote scholastics, not drinking.

The speech was sponsored by InterFraternity Council and Panhellenic Council as a part of Alcohol Awareness Week “to take the emphasis off alcohol because alcohol lends itself to dead weight in a house,” IFC President Tim McIntyre said.

Schmitz said that the lower grade point averages have come only in the last couple of years, as fraternities and sororities have had a higher percentage of freshmen and sophomores, who tend to bring grade averages down.

The last ‘leg’ of the stool in Schmitz’s analogy was good programs, and he said that each house should have a sense of programming, such as giving 10 percent off dues if a student receives a 3.5 GPA or above.

Schmitz said he believes that responsible use of alcohol and good scholastics are very important to the success of the Greek system at Eastern.

McIntyre also said that IFC used a semi-dry rush this year to make students more aware that the Greeks are pressing for at least minimum grade point averages.

Alcohol talk Wednesday

By ANGELA PAOLI
Assistant activities editor

“Give Me One Good Reason Why” will be presented by State Trooper Wayne McCoy as part of Alcohol Awareness Week at 3 p.m. Wednesday in the Union addition Charleston-Mattoon room.

McCoy has developed the presentation as an informational lecture on the uses and abuses of alcohol, said Penni Wallace, Residence Hall Association representative for Alcohol Awareness Week.

In his lecture he asks, “Give me one good reason why you should abuse alcohol?” Wallace said.

McCoy has lectured at various colleges on this subject. He is speaking at Lakeland Community College in Mattoon before he comes to Eastern, Wallace said.

The presentation is expected to last 30-45 minutes.

At 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Subway, members of student government will participate in a forum as part of Alcohol Awareness Week.

The forum will be structured into three components, Anita Craig, faculty coordinator for Alcohol Awareness Week, said.

It will begin with a 25-minute movie entitled, “Know When to Say When.” The movie contains various tips on how to be responsible when drinking alcohol, Craig said.

Financial Vice President Ann Hasara and Student Body President Floyd Akins will participate in sobriety tests conducted by a representative from the Charleston and Campus Police, Hasara said.

Akins and Hasara will be given the sobriety tests before consuming alcohol and after consumption, Hasara said.

“This will demonstrate how alcohol actually does slow down reaction time,” Hasara said.

Kicking game a question mark after 0-for-4 showing

Saturday's nail biting victory probably wouldn't have been as close as it was had the Panthers' kicking game been on.

Evan Arapostathis was relieved of his placekicking duties after missing first-half field goals of 47 and 30 yards.

His replacement, Alswinn Kieboom, didn't fare any better, misfiring on attempts of 37 and 45 yards. The Panthers have now converted on only six of 18 field goal attempts this season.

After hitting four straight earlier, Arapostathis has missed his last five attempts. Ironically, the last four he hit were on the road. He hasn't hit since returning home.

Running back Keith Williams along with Southwest Missouri's wing-T offense are gone for another year, and Eastern's defense couldn't be happier.

Williams treaded over the Panthers for 232 yards Saturday, leading the Bears to 390 yards rushing on the day.

It was the second time this season an opposing back topped 200 yards against the Panthers. SIU's Byron Mitchell burned Eastern for 220 yards earlier this year.

"I'm not going to sit here and say we shut them down," said Panther coach Al Molde. "We struggled—their counter play gave us fits all day long. But when you play tough and never quit, good things happen."

It took Eastern's defense the first quarter before it got a grip on Williams, and an entire half before it figured out how to control the wing-T.

Williams gained 149 of his 232 yards in the first quarter on four carries, including runs of 76 and 36 yards. He also ran 50 yards for a touchdown, but was called back after a clipping penalty.

After the initial quarter however, the Panthers allowed Williams only two runs over 10 yards. Williams gained just 45 yards in the second half.

And as went Williams went the Bears' rushing game. After gaining 252 yards on 25 attempts in the first half, the Bears found a different defense out there the second half and were limited to 138 yards in 31 attempts.

"We made some adjustments in the second half and played really well," said safety Bob Bronaugh.

Cox leaves Jays to be Braves GM

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Bobby Cox, who managed the Toronto Blue Jays to their first American League East title this season, resigned Tuesday to become general manager of the Atlanta Braves.

"It was an extremely difficult decision to make because of the success we had in Toronto," Cox said. "The people in Toronto treated me as good as a manager can be treated in my four years there."

The Blue Jays won 99 games in capturing the AL East and were within one game of qualifying for the World Series, only to lose the last three games of the AL playoffs to the Kansas City Royals.

Cox managed the Braves from 1978 until he was fired after the 1981 season. He moved to the Toronto job in 1982. His family continued to live in Marietta, Ga., and he said that was a major reason for the decision to return to the Braves.

"My family is 20 miles north of the ball park," he said. "That was the biggest factor, I've always been a friend of (Atlanta owner) Ted Turner."

Football notebook/Jeff Long

Fellow safety David Swingler agreed. "In the early part of the game we were rushing ourselves. Then we got our minds together and settled down."

Eastern's offense continues to tear up the yardage.

The Panthers are averaging 422.4 yards a game, 13th best in the country among I-AA teams, and five yards ahead of last year's pace. The school record is 424.6, set by the 1978 NCAA II National Championship team.

Eastern is also the seventh-ranked passing offense, averaging 313 yards a game through the air.

"We've got a lot more confidence in ourselves as a whole unit," said slotback Calvin Pierce. Eastern has passed for over 300 yards in three straight games.

Watch for quarterback Sean Payton to break a pair of school records Saturday when the Panthers host Western.

Payton, who owns 6,185 career passing yards, needs just 98 yards passing to eclipse former Panther Jeff Christensen's career mark of 6,282.

Payton also has 5,951 career yards of total offense, only 235 yards short of Christensen's career mark of 6,185.

Wide receiver Roy Banks is in catching distance of a school record also. With 25 career TD receptions, he's just two shy of Scott McGhee's school record of 27.

The Panthers continue to post their three top receivers on the I-AA top 20 list.

Banks is tied for 11th with 6.4 receptions a game; Pierce is tied for 14th at 6.1, and running back DuWayne Pitts is 16th with six receptions a game.

Other NCAA I-AA stat chat: Payton is fifth in total offense at 296.4 yards a game...Pitts is 17th in all-purpose yardage (137.6) and 19th in rushing (94.1).

Payton's 383 yards passing was his second highest this season and the 13th time he's topped 300 in 18 games as a starter.

Payton says he took up Southwest's dare when he saw the Bears' defensive alignment.

"Their philosophy dared us to throw against them and they'd drop back and cover us with eight defensive backs and three down linemen who weren't really coming hard," Payton explained.

"They did a decent job but I feel with our receiver speed and route discipline, it will be tough for a team to do that against us. I had all day to stand in the pocket and it paid off."

Saturday's attendance of 4,065 was the smallest of the season in four home contests.

Linebacker Jeff Mills was selected by the WLBH broadcast team as the Eagle Bank player of the week.

Mills, a freshman who has seen limited playing time this season, recorded eight tackles against Southwest Missouri and was in on the game-saving tackle which thwarted the Bears' two-point conversion attempt.

Eagle Bank will donate $100 in Mills' name to the Panther Club.

to read our offenses and adjust.

"By putting in these faster sets, we want to create some one-on-one opportunities for our hitters," Ralston said.

Ralston also added that she probably wouldn't be set on a starting line-up until sometime Wednesday. Freshman Gianna Galanti earned a starting nod at outside hitter in place of sophomore Diane Eiserman during last weekend's matches.

"Gianna has really earned a starting spot," Ralston said. "The problem is deciding whose spot she's going to take.

"Diane and Lori (Berger) have done fine in the back row, but just haven't been consistent in the front row."

Ralston is also concerned in getting hitting opportunities for junior middle hitter Maura LeFevour.

"Maura's hitting came on this weekend in Drake, that's probably the best she has hit in a long time," Ralston said.

"Maura has not been the success she was last year because I think (setter) Jeanne (Pacione) is worried that the other team's blockers are keying on her, and consequently isn't setting her," Ralston said. "Maura probably had twice the number of attempts last year at this time."

LeFevour has the lowest number of attempts (336) of any of the Panther starters with the exception of Pacione.

Senior outside hitter Judy Planos leads Eastern with a .241 hitting mark. Planos also leads the team in service aces (39) and is second in kills (222).

LeFevour's .229 hitting percentage ranks second on the team. The junior possesses a team-leading 19 block solos and 44 block assists.

Berger is tied for the team-lead in block assists (44) while collecting 30 service aces.

Pacione is among the Gateway leaders in assists with 623. The sophomore also hit .429 with two service aces in Eastern's victory over Drake.

Panther basketball returns

Collins selected as preseason All-American

By DAN VERDUN
Assistant sports editor

As fall temperatures begin to cool down, things are heating up in Lantz Gym.

At a time when most fans are still wrapped up in the college football season, coach Rick Samuels and his Eastern men's basketball team have begun the task of preparing for their 1985-86 campaign.

In addition to going through the rigors of daily practice, the Panthers are holding scrimmages from 10:30 a.m.-12 p.m. in Lantz Gym prior to all home football games.

"Of course, we're stressing fundamentals at this point," Samuels said. "But we're also working on getting our offensive and defensive systems into line."

"We're also putting a few new things in. We make changes each year depending on how things have developed and what we have."

Samuels will welcome back a solid nucleus from last season's 20-10 squad that won the Association of Mid-Continent Universities' post-season tournament championship.

Heading that list of returnees is last year's AMCU 'Player-of-the-Year' Jon Collins. The 6-foot-4 senior forward has been selected as a pre-season All-American by Street & Smith Magazine.

Collins, who has finished as the AMCU runner-up in scoring the past two years, became the first Panther to earn All-American status at the Division-I level when the senior was honored last year.

Also returning to the Eastern line-up will be seniors Kevin Duckworth and Doug Crook.

Duckworth—at 7-foot, 280 pounds—holds down the center slot, while the 6-foot-2 Crook will be counted for his outside shooting ability from his guard position.

Meanwhile, sophomore Norm Evans is expected take over at point guard for the graduated Troy Richardson. Sophomore Vince Macciocchi is the likely candidate for the opening at power forward due to the loss of second team all-AMCU performer Dirk Androff.

"We've got to come up with some depth," Samuels said. "Not only did we lose starters, but also the players who came off the bench contributed a lot to the team."

However, Samuels is optimistic about the Panthers' chances this season based on their late-season success of a year ago.

"I'm hoping that momentum will carry over not only from the team standpoint, but also from the standpoint of support," Samuels said.

Samuels also expects another dogfight for supremacy in the AMCU.

"Our conference is always going to be tough," Samuels said. "I think it's better than its image

File photo
Forward Jon Collins head a list of returning starters for coach Rick Samuels' Panthers. Collins, last year's AMCU player of the year, has been picked as a preseason All-American by Street and Smith Magazine.

indicates. Last year we began to get some respect because we had two teams that won 20 games, ourselves and Cleveland State.

"We got a lot of media coverage as a result that should carry over. But, I don't think that we'll really get recognized until we get into post-season play. We (AMCU) get our automatic bid to the NCAA tournament next year."

Booters fall further down in rankings

By DOBIE HOLLAND
Staff writer

Eastern's loss to St. Louis University on Saturday confirmed the fears of faithful soccer fans. The Panthers dropped two places in the Midwest rankings Tuesday, moving the 9-3-1 team to fifth place.

The Intercollegiate Soccer Athletic Association coaches poll placed Air Force Academy, 10-1-2, in first place for the fourth week in a row. The Falcons are also ranked 13th in the nation.

Southern Methodist, 10-4, is second and ranked 20th nationally, while streaking Illinois State, 9-2-2, is third and No. 4 North Texas State, at 9-3-1, rounds off the top five squads.

An improved 8-5-2 St. Louis Billiken unit is in sixth place, thanks to a five-game-winning streak and standout underclassmen who are doing the job.

Completing the Top 10 is Southern Illinois-Edwardsville at 9-6, Western Illinois, 8-3-2, is eighth, the University of New Mexico is ninth sporting at 8-2-2, and flailing Houston Baptist is No. 10 with a 10-3-1 record.

"No one team is really steady," said Eastern coach Cizo Mosnia, who offered his explanations for the up-and-down season Midwest teams are experiencing.

"There is so much competition in this region and teams don't seem too consistent," he said.

The only teams which have put forth a steady season are the Falcons, Illinois State and the Panthers. And if the fine print is examined carefully, loopholes can be found.

For instance, Mosnia said, the Falcons have not played a single top ranked team in the Midwest. Last week's 2-0 win was over Division III Colorado College.

Meanwhile, the only quality team Illinois State has faced and beaten are the Panthers, who can be as inconsistent as the Indian Summer weather, Mosnia said.

North Texas beat Northern Illinois last week to give it the same record as the Panthers, but the Mean Green have failed against rival Southern Methodist.

The Panthers' losses to Illinois State, Evansville University and St. Louis are to good teams as the ratings show. The Purple Aces are currently the No. 5 team in the country.

Mosnia said the top five teams have the best chance at claiming a post-season bid.

White's bat leads KC to 6-1 victory

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Frank White, acting like the cleanup hitter he isn't supposed to be, hit a two-run homer and doubled in another run Tuesday night as the Kansas City Royals bounced back from two straight losses and beat the St. Louis Cardinals 6-1 in Game 3 of the World Series.

Bret Saberhagen, the 21-year-old ace of Kansas City's pitching staff, struck out eight and allowed only six singles to stop the Cardinals' juggernaut and prevent the Royals from falling into a double-jeopardy situation in the best-of-seven Series. It was the first complete game of this Series.

George Brett tied a Series record by reaching base five straight times in one game, on two singles and three walks, and Lonnie Smith had a two-run double as the Royals ended an offensive drought that had seen them score just three runs in the first two games. KC had 11 hits and also benefitted from eight walks by Cardinal pitchers.

The Royals scooped their first two runs off Cardinals' right-hander Joaquin Andujar in the fourth inning on Smith's hit, then White ended yet another futile day's work for Andujar when he hit the two-run homer in the fifth. His run-scoring double came in a two-run seventh.

White's homer was the first of this World Series. It also was the first in World Series play for White, pressed into duty as a cleanup hitter after the absence of a designated hitter here had relegated Hal McRae to the bench.

The Royals, who had blown Game 2 Sunday night after taking a 2-0 lead into the ninth, already had lost the first two games of the Series at home. It had happened only nine previous times in the World Series, and none of those teams had gone on to win. But the future would have looked even dimmer had the Royals fallen to 0-3, a deficit from which 16 teams had failed to recover.

Game 4 of the Series sends Kansas City left-hander Bud Black, 10-15, against John Tudor, 21-8.

Spikers to get rest from tough Gateway slate

By DAN VERDUN
Assistant sports editor

Eastern's volleyball team will get a break from its Gateway Conference schedule Wednesday when the Panthers entertain non-conference opponent St. Francis of Joliet at 7:30 p.m. in Lantz Gym.

The Panthers, 13-10 overall and 1-1 in the Gateway, are coming off a weekend split as a result of blasting winless Drake and bowing to Northern Iowa.

Eastern coach Betty Ralston plans to use the St. Francis contest for the Panthers to work on a faster variety of offensive sets.

"Our six starters all played together in spring ball last year, and as a result they got real comfortable in doing the same things," Ralston said. "Maybe we should have stayed with the sets we were running because we had success (earlier this season)."

"But in looking at the (game) films, we can see just how easy it is for our conference opponents (See SPIKERS, page 14)
